

The Inuit of the Canadian Arctic.

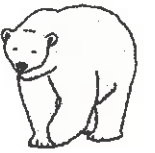

Introduction

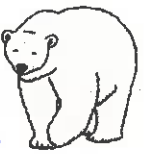

The Inuits are people, that live and move around a place called Nunavut, Nunavut is in the Arctic Circle. The Inuits live in very cold, harsh areas. Some Inuits live in the Arctic, they find their own way to survive.

What clothing do they wear?

Inuits wear animals skins, the warmest material in the world is worn there in the winter time. Which is made out of seal and caribou skin. They wear animal intestines, they are waterproof so that the body won't freeze. Caribou skin is used to make boots and mittens.

What do they eat?

Inuits eat mostly meat from what they get from hunting. They eat such animals as caribou, seals, walrus, whale, and quite a lot of other arctic animals. Sometimes berries and plants are eaten.
